

GATE OF ARLINGTON CEMETERY

ALONG Schuyler avenue and between the Belleville Pike and Stewart avenue lies Arlington Cemetery, which ranks as one of the most beautiful burial grounds in New Jersey. Situated on the slope of the ridge that rises from the Meadows, it is a spot of gentle rolling hills and many trees, through which one gets magnificent panoramic glimpses of New York City's distant skyscrapers. There are sixty-eight acres of land in the Cemetery. The gate and gate-house shown in this drawing are located at the westerly entrance and face Schuyler Avenue. One of the interesting features of the cemetery is "Veterans' Circle," a section of ground in which almost a thousand Civil War soldiers are buried. Conceived and constructed about fifty years ago, Arlington Cemetery was the first in the state to adopt landscape lawn. It was the first and is now one of the few cemeteries in New Jersey that provides for perpetual care. Located away from the main arteries, it is a spot not often visited and its beauty is not generally realized.
