

THE P. B. C. YEAR BOOK

AL KENNEDY, BILL MCGURE, AND JIM CARBERRY ON SHIP 13 CRUISE
JUNE 21, 1962

Photo by K.W. Pflieger

SHOW BUSINESS

The P. B. C. Dramatic Company, along with the acrobatic department and glee club, do much to entertain the audiences of the P. B. C. This year's play was "Oh Johnny" a comedy about a boy and a frog. It was written by John Randall, a professional playwright, and we had to pay a $5 royalty to produce.

The picture below shows the cast. In the rear row from left to right are: Lee Bonannella as Johnny Turner; Geo. Koerner, Property Man; Ronald Fraser as Richard Turner; and Ronald Green as Martin Willis. In the front row are: Ronald Boyle, understudy for Susan Smith, a part acted by James Grannon (absent); Tom Doran as Alice Turner; Anthony Battaglino as Mrs. Turner; and Anthony Adamo as Orchid, the Maid.

In the picture at the lower right Ted Pulton

is dressed as a twister. He and his partner, Alien Impaglia, danced to music furnished by an orchestra during a "trip" of the Fithian Choristers (See page 18.) through Manhattan. This and many other nov-cl'ties were found as the boys "toured" New York City and sang in many of its languages.

Photo by Alfred Beck
P. B. C. DRAMATIC CO. CAST
OF "OH, JOHNNY"

TED PULTON
DOES "THE TWIST"